

Consent Form — Making dissertations available via RePub

Name: Luis Mireles-Flores
Department (capacity- or researchgroup): Philosophy Department (EIPE)
Address (work):
Telephone (work):
E-mail (work):
Address (home): Maneesikatu 4b
Telephone (home): +358403247782
E-mail (home): hyperion@gardener.com
Title of dissertation:
Economic science for use: causality and evidence in policy making
The dissertation is expected to be defended on (date): 02-September-2016

Statement of Consent: By signing this form, I grant permission to the Erasmus University of Rotterdam (Netherlands) to store the electronic copy of my dissertation in RePub, the University's digital scientific archive, and make it available online.

Place: Helsinki, Finland
Date: 14-September-2016

Signature:

NB: The publisher of a book or an article is responsible for any breach of copyrights regarding material, such as pictures, that are included in the publication. In case of a private publication this responsibility rests with the author who has to make sure no breach of copyright is committed. In any case the above signature means that the author guarantees the Erasmus University of Rotterdam that there will be no valid third party claims. An embargo can be granted for a maximum of one year, upon submission of a written request by the publisher.

The copyright for (parts of) this publication rests with someone else, i.e.:

Name:
Address:

Place:

If the copyright rests (in whole or in part) with someone else, the candidate must supplement this form with a written statement by the copyright holder, whereby he or she allows the Erasmus University of Rotterdam to store the article in RePub as part of the electronic version of the dissertation, and make it available online. For this purpose two sample letters are provided on the RePub website (see: "submissions")