

Stellingen behorende bij het proefschrift

Safety of biologics during pregnancy in women with immune-mediated inflammatory diseases

1. Intensified collaboration between healthcare providers, academics and Marketing Authorization Holders (MAHs) is needed to enhance research on reproduction/lactation at an early stage of biological development. - dit proefschrift
2. Except for vedolizumab, no specific congenital malformation (CM) patterns are observed in pregnancy reports of non-TNFi biologics (including abatacept, anakinra, belimumab, ixekizumab, rituximab, secukinumab, tocilizumab and ustekinumab) in the EudraVigilance database.- dit proefschrift
3. Harmful effects of disease itself on mother and foetus should not be ignored in weighing continuation of the therapy against precautionary withdrawing because of lack of sufficient data.- dit proefschrift
4. Compliance with the EULAR recommended stop-moments results in absence of etanercept and low concentration of adalimumab, infliximab and certolizumab pegol in cord blood.- dit proefschrift
5. Treatment with TNFis during pregnancy may lower the immunity of infants against pertussis infection.- dit proefschrift
6. The relationship between autoimmunity and reproduction seems to be bidirectional.- Piccinni; et al. 2016
7. Some medicines may unnecessarily be withheld from pregnant and breastfeeding women, or a suboptimal treatment option may be chosen, because of potential safety concerns which may be only theoretical.- EMA Workshop on benefit-risk of medicines used during pregnancy and breastfeeding. 22 September 2020
8. What many have come to realize is that rather than protecting pregnant people from research, what we really need to be doing is protecting them through research.- Carleigh Krubiner. 2021
9. The global average “Women, Business and the Law” score is 76.5 out of 100, indicating that a typical woman has just three-quarters of the rights of men.- World Bank, Women, Business and the Law report. 2022
10. There is nothing in all the world greater than freedom. It is worth paying for; it is worth losing a job for; it is worth going to jail for. I would rather be a free pauper than a rich slave.- Martin Luther King
11. Zan, Zendegi, Azadi (Voor vrouw, leven, vrijheid).- Perzische strijdlied